

FRANKFORT ROUNDABOUT.

Entered at the post-office at Frankfort, Kentucky as second class mailable matter.

GEORGE A. LEWIS.

Editor and Publisher.

FRANKFORT, JANUARY 27, 1883.

LIGHT WORKING.—A child 6 or 7 years old can do the churning with ease with a Victor. Buckley sells them.

Applicants for the positions of teacher are still being examined. The number has dwindled from twelve to five.

Shooting at glass balls has become quite a pastime with the young gentlemen of this city, and every pleasant afternoon quite a large company of them gather in the bottom in the rear of the Penitentiary and bang away at a lively rate.

Mrs. Amanda Scantland, an old resident of this county, died in Louisville Sunday night, while on a visit to her daughter in that city. The remains were brought to this city Tuesday morning and interred at her old home, near South Benson Church, in the Bridgeport precinct.

Alas! Egbert has met his fate; smitten by the beauty of a South Side belle, who fiercely attacks the citadel of his heart and carries it by assault, he surrenders unconditionally.

[The above was smuggled in by our devil, who is envious of our good looking young man.—Ed.]

Mr. William Craig, while at work at the saw-mill of Mr. J. M. Wakefield, Thursday afternoon, had the ends of the three first fingers of his right hand cut off by the edge saw. One day last week he came near getting one of his eyes put out by a splinter flying up from a piece of timber that was being cut and striking him under it.

Mr. John T. Buckley has organized his employees into a hook and ladder brigade and tendered their services to the Chief of the Fire Department, who gladly accepted them, knowing that being accustomed to handling ladders in their everyday work, they would be valuable men in case of a fire. Such public spirit on the part of Mr. Buckley is worthy of the highest praise, as he will not only render the city valuable service but save her considerable expense.

A grand hop will be given at the Capital Hotel, by the young gentlemen of the Assembly Ball Club, on Thursday evening next, February 1st. No invitations will be issued and no young lady need feel slighted if she does not receive one. The affair will be conducted in the usual good style of the Club, and an excellent string band has been engaged from Louisville to furnish the music. Young ladies and gentlemen from other cities are invited, and our own young people are, of course, expected to be present. It will be a very pleasant occasion.

It would do the heart of a lover of flowers good to visit the green-houses of Mr. Ed Power, on the hill opposite the Cemetery gate. He has there two large buildings, one 11 feet by 62 and the other 65 by 25 feet, literally filled with all kinds of flowering plants. They are in charge of Mr. James Welch and are heated by hot water pipes, it requiring over six hundred feet of pipe for the purpose. The greatest variety of Geraniums to be seen anywhere is to be found here, as well as Roses of all kinds, Pearl de Jourdans, Primroses, Fairy Bells, Hyacinths, Bovaldians, Pointed, Cala Lilies, Hyacinths, Easter Lilies, Camellias in all shades, Pansies, Sweet Violets, &c. He has fully one hundred Marshal Neil rose bushes, many of them in bloom, and the interior of the houses present a sight that one could feast his eyes upon for hours.

Mr. Power has been gradually working up his business for several years and is now in condition to supply most any demand that may be made upon his stock for funeral or party occasions. He will fill all orders promptly for button-hole bouquets or cut flowers, when left at his tin-store, on Ann street, or will furnish at any time any number or variety of potted plants that may be desired. You can send in your orders by telephone, if you desire it, by just calling up No. 64.

Mr. Power extends a cordial invitation to everybody, and especially the ladies, to come up and see his green-house and the flowers, on any day of the week, Sunday not excepted, and any hour in the day there will always be somebody at home, and they will take great pleasure in showing visitors around.

Oysters, celery, and fish at J. M. Banta's.

EASIEST TO CLEAN.—Nothing to do but to remove dasher and send out the bucket of the Victor Churn. For sale at Buckley's.

FOR RENT.—A neat new cottage, with five rooms, cellar, and cistern, located in South Frankfort. Apply to Adam K. Stephens.

Another telephone was added to the exchange Thursday. It was put into the office of the Director of the Geological Survey, and is number 72.

The Finance Committee of the City Council have settled in full with ex-City Marshal J. E. Kirtley, and at the next meeting of the Council he will doubtless be given his quietus.

Leave orders for everything good to eat at J. M. Banta's.

A negro ex-convict by the name of Squire Smith was arrested Thursday afternoon and placed in jail on the charge of setting fire to the old Eli Williams residence, near the Forks of Elkhorn, two weeks ago. His examining trial will take place Monday.

Isaac Murphy, the noted colored jockey of Fleetwood Farm, and Miss Lucy Carr, of this city, were married Wednesday evening. Quite a number of the young friends of the groom from other places were in attendance, as well as a large company from this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. S. Bentley.

The brightest and most cheerful grate fires are made with cannon coal, and the hands and clothing are not soiled in handling it. Mr. Geo. B. Macklin has just received a large supply of the above coal from Reynolds' mine, South Fork of Kentucky river, in Owsley county, and is selling it out at the same price of Pittsburgh and other better grades of stone coal. The ROUNDABOUT acknowledges the receipt of a sample, which is first class.

The following officers were elected by Capital Lodge, No. 259, I. O. G. T., on Thursday evening, for three months, beginning February 1st.

Thos. J. Harris, W. C. T.
Miss Kate Mangan, W. V. T.
Jas. McEwan, W. S.
W. L. Wavts, W. F. S.
Mrs. H. J. Hyde, W. Treas.
Dr. A. Davall, W. M.
J. B. Utterback, W. I. G.
J. M. Todd, jr., W. O. G.

When we inserted that little sum about killing thirty hogs in five days, an odd number each day, we were not fishing for a Snicker, but it seems we caught one, or at least, that little item caught his eye, and he writes us as follows:

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., Jan. 16, 1883.

Editor Roundabout:

DEAR SIR: For the sake of the peace of mind of the poor devil who has been losing sleep over the impossible problem of killing 30 hogs in 5 days, by killing an odd number each day, tell him I say don't do it; it can't be done. Because for why? if he will read in a little book called "Ray's Practical Arithmetic" an interesting chapter on "factoring" it will tell him that the sum of an odd number of odd numbers is always an odd number, which thirty is not, and consequently if he tries to slaughter his swine on that same plan he and one of his swine will be pretty apt to get left. See?

Yours, &c.,

Personal.

Miss Annie Jones has been quite sick this week, but is now much better.

Miss Ellen Todd left Tuesday morning for a visit to friends in Louisville.

Miss Sarah Bacon left Thursday morning for a visit to friends in Louisville.

Miss Alice Patterson, of Sangamon county, Illinois, is visiting relatives in this county.

Mr. Thos. S. Page and wife, of LaSalle, Illinois, are visiting his mother in this city.

Mrs. Mag. Gaines and daughter, Miss Jennie, have returned from a visit to McKinney, Texas.

Miss Corn Cotton, of New Albany, Ind., is visiting Misses Eleanor Woods and Rebecca Williams.

Misses Hallie and Venie Herndon will leave this afternoon for Cincinnati to attend the Opera Festival.

Dr. John L. Phythian, of Newport, was in the city Tuesday, but left for home Wednesday morning.

Prof. Wayland Graham and Mr. S. D. Johnson will go to Cincinnati Monday to attend the Opera Festival.

Mr. A. C. Keenon still remains very low at his residence near this city, and slight hopes are entertained of his recovery.

Mr. F. V. Gray went to Louisville the first of the week to attend the funeral of his brother, Mr. John Thompson Gray, jr.

Miss Kate Wherritt has returned to her home in Lancaster, after a visit of several weeks to the family of her uncle, Mr. John T. Gray, near this city.

Mrs. Dr. E. A. Grant and daughter, Miss Pettie, who have been visiting relatives in this city and county, returned to their home in Louisville Wednesday afternoon.

Colonel W. Johnston Todd, the well-known druggist, will leave tomorrow for his future home, Seattle, Washington Territory. Colonel Todd will take with him the wishes of many friends for a successful career in the new country, though regretting his departure.—Denver Tribune, Jan. 21st.
